What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files containing small amounts of information which are placed onto your device such as your computer, smartphone or other electronic device when you visit a website, provided your browser settings allow it. Many cookies are necessary to enable core functionality of websites to work. Cookies are widely used by websites to enable them to function properly and to improve the user experience.

How do we use Cookies?

Our website places and accesses cookies on your device. We may use the following cookies on our Websites:

- 1. Essential Cookies: these are essential in order to enable you to move around a website and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the website. Without these cookies, certain services you may have asked for cannot be provided. These cookies do not gather information about you that could be used for marketing or remembering where you have been on the Internet.
- 2. Performance cookies: these collect information about how visitors use a website, for instance which pages visitors go to most often, and if they get error messages from web pages. These cookies do not collect information that identifies a visitor. All information these cookies collect is anonymous and is only used to improve how a website works.
- 3. Functionality cookies: these allow a website to remember choices you make (such as your username, language or the region you are in) and provide enhanced features. These cookies can also be used to remember changes you have made to text size, font and other parts of web pages that you can customise. They may also be used to provide services you have requested, such as watching a video. The information these cookies collect may not always be anonymous, but these cookies are not able to track your browsing activity on other websites.

By using our website, you agree that we can place these types of cookies from us and third parties on your device.
